“Consumer Goods Technology” Readers Award Logility Top Rankings

Logility Receives Top Marks for Five Consecutive Years

ATLANTA (February 22, 2005) Logility (NASDAQ: LGTY), a leading supplier of collaborative solutions to optimize the supply chain, has received multiple Reader’s Choice Awards in the January 2005 issue of Consumer Goods Technology. Companies with up to $1 billion in revenue voted Logility a breakout winner for supply chain planning and supply chain execution; and the company scored in the top five in individual categories for supply chain planning, supply chain execution, transportation management and RFID-enabled software. The rankings are based on results from a reader survey conducted in late 2004.

“Logility’s supply chain planning and execution solutions have received top recognition by our readers each year for five consecutive years,” said Tim Clark, editor-in-chief of Consumer Goods Technology.

“Consumer goods companies continue to depend on Logility Voyager Solutions™ to deliver a flexible supply chain solution that will support their dynamic business requirements and provide more efficient production, inventory, sales, forecasting, distribution and transportation planning,” said Mike Edenfield, Logility president and CEO. “We appreciate the continued vote of confidence from our customers and other market leaders, and will work hard for their ongoing support.”

Logility offers a complete supply chain management solution with performance monitoring capabilities in a single Internet-based collaborative framework, including supply chain visibility; demand, inventory, replenishment and manufacturing planning; supply and global sourcing optimization; transportation planning and management; and warehouse management.
